

To Whom It May Concern:

CNN world headquarters is located in Atlanta, in addition we have studios in Washington DC and multiple studio facilities in the newly opened Time Warner Media Center in New York City. Globally CNN has major studio facilities in London, Berlin, Madrid, Istanbul, Mexico and Hong Kong.

We have worked on multiple projects with Futimis Designs Systems and found their design approaches to be fresh and innovative, their product line very versatile and their installations professional, clean and efficient. In the news business working under tight deadlines and sometimes limited budgets is commonplace. The staff of Futimis has always been accommodating and pleasant to work with even under extreme conditions.

We are planning several new projects with Futimis for this year and first quarter 2007. The initial project is a magazine style medical / health show for CNN en Espanol. Projects slated for next year include a major overhaul to CNN en Espanol studio B that will incorporate innovative designs that allow multiple looks while being very simple to change. The CNN International studio B project will again utilize innovative designs and materials provided by Futimis that incorporate our world weather update center with a news desk area that will be used for special programming and updates. The space will also incorporate actual working office space for staff.

We look forward to working with Futimis Systems on these upcoming projects.

Sincerely,

Mark Wright

Creative Director, CNN International Networks